"READING,"

said Lord Bacon, "maketh a full man." That is, a man of knowledge. Knowledge is power. Do you want to be powerful? Text books in school furnish knowledge, but they also give only the skeleton. The flesh must be put on by the teacher (or by reading), in the way of illustration. To get this additional information one must consult many special books, which can be found outside of the libraries. Each month the Burlington Route issues a printed sheet containing articles of history, facts, lines, comparative, reliable and interesting on geographical, scientific and historical subjects. If you send your name and address to W. J.
C. Kenyon, G. F. and P. A., St.
Paul, Minn., one of these sheets will be sent to you every month during 1896.
N. B.—The Burlington Route is the best line from St. Paul and Minneapolis to Chicago or St. Louis.

CANCER CURED

—AND A—
LIFE SAVED
By the Persistent Use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"I was troubled for years with a sore on my knee, which several physicians, who treated me, called a cancer, assuring me that nothing could be done to save my life. As a last resort, I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and after taking a few bottles, the sore began to disappear and my general health improved. I persisted in this treatment, until the sore was entirely healed. Since then, I use Ayer's Sarsaparilla occasionally as a tonic and blood-purifier, and, indeed, it seems as though I could not keep house without it."—Mrs. S. A.

MINNESOTA'S LAKE REGIONS.

A Crow Wing County Man Gives Some
Reasons Why This Section of Minnesota is Delightful.

The following article, which recently appeared in the Minneapolis Tribune, is from the pen of Freeman Thorpe, who lives at Hubert Lake, some twelve miles north of Brainerd:
The shrewd observer of the course of population, will, if he familiarizes himself with the existing conditions of Northern Minnesota, see clearly that around the headwaters of the Mississippi, within the next quarter of a century, there will be living as many people to the square mile as in any country having a strictly rural population. The reasons for their coming I will try to enumerate. First in importance, the high table land where the Mississippi has its source is naturally the healthiest in North America. It is the highest inland non-mountainous land we have. There is no malaria, and practically none but preventable diseases. The climatic conditions are undergoing a rapid change for the better.

It has been supposed that the severe cold would prevent the settlement of this part of Minnesota, as it has often found expression in a popular saying that the climate here was supposed to be ten months winter and two months late in the fall, and that was appropriately true 25 years ago, before any of the timber was removed, but a cutting off of a large part of the pine, let the soil, which is largely composed of sand, absorb the sun's rays freely.

heating it much earlier in the season than it used to, the water sweeping into the lakes and streams from this heated soil is much warmer than formerly. The main temperature of the lakes is raised, the spring opens earlier, the fall runs farther into the winter months, and the winters are materially shortened and greatly modified. Right here a careless observer will ask the question why there is not a prairie country in this same latitude warmer than this timbered region. The most important reason is, the prairie country has neither the sand nor the innumerable lakes that this region has. Let us consider for a moment the effect upon the climate the lakes have. Water absorbs heat very rapidly, but gives it out slowly, for instance, the plunging of a piece of iron at a white heat into water, it cools the iron almost instantly by absorbing the heat the iron contained, and the temperature of the water raised by this almost instantaneous absorption remains higher for a long time, although the surface of the water be directly exposed to air of a much lower temperature. The lakes absorb the heat from the sun's rays, the refracted heat from their sandy shores, receive the warmer water from the sand hills, and by absorbing all the heat, prevents it being thrown back into the atmosphere by reflection, which keeps the summer days cooler, but stores the heat, and gives it out in the fall when the sun's rays are less powerful, and frost would otherwise appear, then it is found, that in the sandy lake region of Northern Minnesota, the first frosts of fall, generally occur more than a month later than in the prairie region a hundred miles further south, and this difference becomes more and more marked with each passing year,
and now, with reasonable fertilization, corn may be raised on the sandy uplands in the lake regions of North ern Minnesota as early and with greater certainty than in Kansas or Iowa.

The effect upon the climate of the partially denuded sand hills adjacent to and in connection with the numerous lakes is so far as it conduces to the comfort of men, is still more marked. The general temperature of the lake is the same at night and at noon, hence it is much cooler in the heat of the day than the air just over the sandy hills, and the heated air overlying the land rises, and in place it is supplied with the cooler air overlooking the lake region, giving rise to the most delightful lake breezes, and often times this gets up local showers very beneficial to vegetation, and while in a country of plains and prairies this far north, the average night even in summer is apt to be so much cooler than the day, as to make the marked change unpleasant. Here the temperature undergoes just enough less change to render it delightful in summer and fall, and the shortening of the winter makes the cold weather less tedious.

The precipitation is nearly 50 per cent greater here than in Southwestern Minnesota or the Dakotas, and the greater rainfall occurs almost entirely in the growing season, and nearly all the showers come at night. Why they come at night is a problem I have not solved. I merely record the fact.
What I have here said of the influence of the lakes applies with equal force to all regions of Minnesota where the area of the lakes is nearly or quite equal to the land surface. Only the influence of the lakes and the sandy soil combined is greater than the influence of the lakes in a clay or loam region. I have traveled and made considerable stays in many parts of the United States, and I have never found a climate so delightful, take it all in all, as this climate of Northern Minnesota for the nine months, beginning with April and closing with December. The three months are undeniable cold, mitigated, it is true, by the dryness of the atmosphere, and with the heavy clothing it is customary to wear in this climate in the winter, people who have warm houses pass the winter very comfortably, and it is just as easy to have warm houses here as to have an ordinary house in an ordinary climate.

From the experience of actual residence, I can truly say that I can find but one serious drawback to this region as a delightful place of residence, and that is the mosquitoes, but they will be greatly lessened by the settlement of the country. I find that all kinds of crops that grow in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, grow well and mature here, while all kinds of root crops do better here than in the states I have named. But I will defer from writing of what this country is capable of in the way of agriculture, and floriculture until another time, merely expressing the opinion now that it is the most inviting field for the farmer, stock-raiser and fruit-grower.

Ir Congressman Towne had been at the Sixth district convention at Aitkin, on Monday, he would have had a chance to have felt the pulse of his constituency in regard to honest money. Mr. Towne will find himself in the same position as Senator Pettigrew before the matter is finally settled.

The victory in Minnesota for Mc-Kinley was probably the biggest boom for the Ohio man that he will receive during the campaign. It was the idea of the politicians of the country that Davis would get the delegation as long as he stood any show of success, but when Senator Davis withdrew and it was known that Mc-Kinley would get Minnesota's 18 votes at St. Louis, a great sensation was created, and nothing can stem the tide that is carrying the Ohio statesman toward the presidential chair. There is no mistaking the fact that Minnesota is in favor of protection and sound money.

The Right Ring.

The following resolution was passed at the Sixth district republican convention at Aitkin on Monday:
The republicans of the sixth congressional district of the state of Minnesota, are unyielding in their demand for honest money. We are unalterably opposed to any scheme that will give to this country a depreciated or debased currency. We favor the use of silver as currency, but to the extent only, and under such restrictions that its parity with gold can be maintained.

solutely Free.

ceive One Hundred Dollars in cash.
For the next largest list we will give

THE MINNESOTA SENATOR OUT OF THE PRESIDENTIAL RACE.

Telegram Read at the State Convention at Minneapolis McKinley Gets the Delegation—Platform Declaring For Protection and Sound Money Adopted.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 25.—The sensation of the day in political circles was the withdrawal of Senator Davis from the presidential race. The announcement came in the form of a telegram from Washington to his chief friends and advisers and was as follows:
I am bound to, always did, and do most loyally respect the wishes of the people of Minnesota, for that reason I request that my name be not considered in the deliberations of the Minneapolis convention. Give all my friends my most enduring and heartfelt thanks.
Minnesota Republicans should, in my opinion, declare against the United States undertaking the unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.
Should also declare for a protective tariff that will encourage, secure and perpetuate domestic production of everything agricultural, mining or manufacturing that we can produce or make, that will in consequence cause steady employment to be given to the American wage earner at wages adequate to the American standard of living; that will also pledge the Republican party to protect American industry and manhood against the competition now threatening them from the Orient, particularly Japan; that will also, by provisions for reciprocity, enlarge our foreign commerce with nations who produce what we need, and that will also assert the policy of the United States as declared by James Monroe and by every one of our statesmen since; that will also declare that the people of Ohio ought to be recognized as belliferents; that will also declare for coast defense and such other naval and military preparation as will surely make us able to secure peace by our manifest invincibility in war.
C. K. DAVIS.

SOLID FOR MCKINLEY.

Withdrawal of Davis Gives the Ohioan
the Minnesota Delegation.
MINNEAPOLIS, March 25.—The withdrawal of Senator Davis from the presidential race was the sensational feature of the state republican convention.
The move was not wholly unexpected, but the reading of the telegram was,
nevertheless, in the nature of a surprise to the hundreds of delegates present. Davis' withdrawal had the effect of clearing the atmosphere, and the McKinley men had smooth sailing.
This was noticed when W. F. Roberts of Hennepin county introduced a resolution McKinley resolution and secured its adoption by a rising vote.
Although the convention was the largest ever held in the state everything went along smoothly and harmony held supreme sway. The delegates at large—R. G. Evans of Minneapolis, George Thompson of St. Paul, L. P. Hunt of Mankato and C. F. Hendrix of Sank Center—were chosen unanimously.

The platform, declaring for "sound money" and protection, was adopted with great enthusiasm, the only fight being made in committee, the Ohio financial plank being voted down.
After the election of the delegates each one was called to the platform for a speech, in which he pledged his support to protection, reciprocity and Mon-roism. Every delegate spoke in praise of Senator Davis.

The convention then proceeded to select alternates, and Dirger Thurston of Wright county, Ira C. Richardson of Polk, A. H. Reed of Glencoe and J. M. Diment of Owatonna were chosen.

T. B. Walker of Minneapolis and E.
G. Holmes of Detroit were named for electors at large.
District Delegations.
District delegations, as far as they have been selected, will be as follows:
Second District—W. R. Edwards, W.
H. Roberts.
Third District—Thomas Paine, ex-
Governor Hubbard.
Fourth District—W. R. Merriam, J.
H. Crandall.
Fifth District—C. A. Pillsbury, Ell
Torrance.
Sixth District—A. D. Davidson, Monroe Nichols.
Seventh District—Ezra G. Valentine,
C. J. Gunderson.

Senator Pettigrew's Fight for Free Silver Downed in Committee.

HURON, S. D., March 26.—The Republican convention almost unanimously instructed for McKinley and protection. The other seven delegates who are all "sound money" and McKinley men, held a meeting and pledged themselves not to allow him to be chairman of the platform or to have a voice in choosing the national committee.
The delegates elected to attend the St. Louis convention are: L. B. French
of Yankton, D. A. Mizner of Mitchell, W. E. Smith of Lead, W. V. L. Lass of Hot Springs, H. G. Meacham of Gettysburg, Dave Williams of Webster, C. G.
Sherwood of Clark and R. F. Pettigrew
of Sioux Falls.

CAN'T AGREE IN TEXAS.

Republican Convention Waiting for a Committee Report.
AUSTIN, Tex., March 26.—The Republican state convention has been called to order for two days, but has yet done nothing, owing to the failure of the committee on credentials to report. The planning has been going steadily on in the convention, however,
and the matter has now reached that point where the McKinley men are in a position where they will not only lose the state but may possibly not even be honored with a position on an instructed delegation. The McKinley-ites continue to keep a bold front and say they will have a representation on the delegation but this is not generally believed. They are regretting deeply now that it is too late, that they overestimated their strength last Monday and refused fusion with the Reed men.
The delegation will be instructed for Allison.

keep house without it."—Mrs. S. A.

Minnesota is Delightful.

proximately true 25 years ago, before any of the timber was removed, but a cutting of a large part of the pine, let

formerly. The mean temperature of

region. The most important reason is, the prairie country has neither the

a moment the effect upon the climate

crops may be raised on the sandy

ordinary climate.

all kinds of crops that grow in Ohio,

the most inviting field for the farmer,

Date: Vinegar, which is now being put on the British market, is regarded as something quite novel, and superior to any other vinegar. It is noted that the British and Asiatic have prepared vinegar from dates for ages past.

A doctor's sister has been designed, the lining of which is fitted with a maze of pockets adapted for the reception of the hundred and one surgical instruments and drugs with which a physician is obliged to be provided.

An example of the klipspringer, which is one of the smallest African antelopes, has recently been added to the collection in the Zoological Gardens, London. The size of the animal's body is described as being about that of a hare.

A foreigner has invented a telephone gear that can be carried with ease on a soldier's back in lieu of the ordinary knapsack. It combines the indispensable qualities of simplicity, lightness, facility and rapidity of installation.

Since Dr. Jameson has been in London he has been overwhelmed with letters from persons desiring to be cured. Among them was one from a handsome widow with two daughters, informing him that he can have his pick of the three. He is, apparently, quite satisfied.

An Eastern contemporary makes the timely suggestion that none of the great war heroes, from Agamemnon down to Gen. Grant, began their careers by tearing or burning up the flags of other nations. The students of Barcelona and Princeton might profitably consider this.

Tosha's idea of passing solids through solids by means of the new ray opens possibilities that go far ahead of electric food tables and emergency rations. Just think of an atomized vapor scintillated through the body by the mysterious energy of light electrically applied.

Not many years ago, when the Russian armies fought their way to Constantinople, the English fleet stopped in and defeated the Russian designs. Now the Sultan is decorating the Russian minister, and has chosen the czar as a protector. Perhaps England is saying nothing, because she is glad to bestow such a protegee upon a enemy.

A little while ago somebody discovered a girl with a microscopic eye. Now they have found a boy to match, whose optical organs have telescopic properties. On the whole, we would prefer the latter—it is bad enough to be intellectually convinced that your daily bread teems with bacilli, without having them visually apparent.

The Spanish Minister of Finance says his Government has on hand enough to spend $5,000,000 a month for ten months in carrying on the war in Cuba. As the last revolution continued ten years, and was less serious than the present outbreak, the minister's statement is the reverse of encouraging.

That "flying squadron," one of England's proudest possessions, is not included. When old Boreas turned loose on the winged fleet it seemed to cover and had an alarmingly close call while getting there. The amusing feature of this affair is that everybody knows that Boreas does nothing but blow.

What will China do without Li Hung Chang? Is a question which is already beginning to be asked, in view of the minister's advanced age. She will do as other countries have done when the indigenous man has been removed. A light producer of one new or side blade a step or two. National progress is a slow growth, but, fortunately, it does not depend finally on any one man.

The theater has become a subject of legislation in Ohio. A member of the legislature who had become weary of paying for admission to the theatrical performances and receiving nothing but military displays, has introduced a bill fining women who wear hats in any place of amusement. If his legislation gets his bill through he will deserve being made president of the United States.

Mrs. Daugherty of Sioux City, who ordered her father to hold her bridegroom under the pump when he presented himself for the marriage ceremony, a little the worse for a last look at the cup, has demonstrated her fitness for matrimony. There was a promptness of decision, a firmness of purpose, and an integrity of toleration expressed in her attitude on that crucial occasion which speaks volumes for the future of the Daugherty men.

A curious law suit is on trial at Lexington, Ky., against the Western Union Telegraph company for tardiness in the delivery of a telegraphic message. A dispatch was sent to the plaintiff informing him of his mother's death, at Lawrenceville, Ga. The message was not promptly delivered, and when he arrived at Lawrenceville his mother and father had been buried. He asks $180,000 damages, which may be taken to mean the price he puts upon the denial of the privilege of attending his mother's funeral.

The tract of land called Greer county, Texas, and claimed by that state, belongs to the United States. This is the conclusion which the United States supreme court has arrived at after a careful inquiry into the facts. A controversy over the boundary has been going on for twenty years, and the territory in dispute has 20,000 settlers. It contains about 1,500,000 square miles, which, by the supreme court's decision, will now have to be added to Oklahoma. This will make Oklahoma's population almost 300,000, or more inhabitants than any territory ever had on admission to statehood except South Dakota and Washington.

General regret and apprehension is expressed in the English papers concerning the health of Queen Victoria. It is said that she looks and seems very feeble, and that those who saw her when she was wheeled on board her yacht which took her to the south of France, felt that they might never see her again. The queen will be seventy-seven years old in May, and it is hardly to be expected that she will be hale and strong at such an advanced age. Yet, so far as her age is concerned, she might easily live to see

An impeccable knight of the razor by the name of David Coleman, in his perambulations about the country for a square meal, struck Brainerd a little over a week ago, and was given a chance to make a few dollars by the proprietors of the Palace barber shop in the Koop block. He worked all last week, and as he was an old acquaintance of Mr. Briggs, one of the proprietors, he was given a key to the shop. On Saturday evening last he took from the shop seven razors and four pairs of clippers, which he proceeded to pawn at various saloons about town for drinks and poker chips. After having enjoyed a night of hilarity, he shook the dust of Brainerd off his feet and departed for a new field of labor. The theft was discovered by the Palace proprietors early the next evening, but not in time to catch the thief, and now they are trying to convince the holders of their goods that they don't propose to pay game one else's saloon bill, but at last report they had not succeeded in recovering all their goods.

edge, but they can give only the skeleton. The flesh must be put on by the reader (or by reading),
in the way of illustration. To
one must read many great books, which can be found outside of our libraries. Each month the Burlington Route issues a list of books containing articles of thirty to forty lines, compact, reliable and interesting, on geographical, scientific and historical subjects. If you send

Minnesota is Delightful.

The following article, which recently appeared in the Minneapolis
Thorpe, who lives at Hubert Lake,
some twelve miles north of Brainerd:
change for the better.

proximately true 25 years ago, before any
of the timber was removed, but a cut-
sand, absorb the sun's rays freely, beating it much earlier in the season
formerly. The man temperature of
cools the iron almost instantly by ab-
sorbing the heat the iron contained,
time, although the surface of the wa-
absorb the heat from the sun's rays,
more marked with each passing year,
and now, with reasonable fertilization, crops may be and is raised on the sandy uplands in the lake regions of North Minnesota as easily and with
or Iowa.

to and in connection with the numerous lakes in so far as it conduces
the sandy hills, and the heated air
overlying the land rises, and in place it is supplanted by the cooler air overlooking the lake region, giving rise to
very beneficial to vegetation, and
the marked change unpleasant. As the temperature undergoes just enough less change to render it de-
cold weather less tedious.

cent greater here than in Southwestern
in the growing season, and nearly all
not solved. I merely record the fact.
all in all, as this climate of Northern
to wear in this climate in the winter,

ordinary climate.

dence, and that is the mosquitoes, but
all kinds of crops that grow in Ohio,
crops do better here than in the states
the most inviting field for the farmer,
stock-raiser and fruit-grower.

It is Congressmen Towne had been
at the Sixth district convention at
settled.

Kinley was probably the biggest
withdrew and it was known that Mc-Kinley would get Minnesota's 18
votes at St. Louis, a great sensation
that Minnesota is in favor of protection and sound money.

The Right Ring.
convention at Aitkin on Monday:

Minnesota, are unyielding in their de-
tions that its parity with gold can be maintained.

at Minneapolis McKinley Gets the
Protection and Sound Money Adopted.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 25.—The senator of the day in political circles was
the withdrawal of Senator Davis from
the presidential race. The announce-
and advisers and was as follows:
request that my name be not considered in the deliberations of the Minne-
my most enduring and heartfelt thanks.
age of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.
Should also declare for a protective
American wage earner at wages adequate to the American standard of liv-
now threatening them from the Orient, particularly Japan; that will also, by provisions for reciprocity, enlarge our foreign commerce with nations who produce what we cannot produce; that will also assert the policy of the United States
Cuba ought to be recognized as belligerents; that will also declare for coast defenses and such other naval and military preparation as will surely
manifest invincibility in war.
C. K. DAVIS.

the Minnesota Delegation.
drawal of Senator Davis from the presidential race was the sensational feature of the state republican convention.
The move was not wholly unexpected,
but the reading of the telegram was,
the McKinley men had smooth sailing.
This was noticed when W. P. Roberts of Hennepin county introduced a rousing McKinley resolution and secured its adoption by a rising vote.
moniously held supreme sway. The delegates at large—R. G. Evans of Minneapolis, George Thompson of St. Paul,
L. P. Hunt of Mankato and C. F. Hendrix of Sauk Centre—were chosen unanimously.
The platform, declaring for "sound
on it being made in committee, the Ohio financial plan being voted down.
After the election of the delegates
a speech, in which he pledged his support to protection, reciprocity and Mon-
of Senator Davis.
The convention then proceeded to select alternates, and Diriger Thurston of Wright county, Ira C. Richardson of Polk, A. H. Reed of Glenwood and J. M. Diment of Owatonna were chosen.
T. B. Walker of Minneapolis and E.
G. Holmes of Detroit were named for
electors at large.
District Delegations.
Second District—W. R. Edwards, W.
H. Roy.
Governor Hubbard.
Fourth District—W. R. Merriam, J.
H. Crandall.
Fifth District—C. A. Pillsbury, Eli
Torrance.
Sixth District—A. D. Davidson, Monroe Nichols.
Seventh District—Ezra G. Valentine,
C. J. Gusterson.
Senator Pettigrew's Fight for Free Silver Downed in Committee.

HENRY, S. D., March 25.—The Republican convention almost unani-
"sound money." There has been a big fight for two months over both propositions, Senator Pettigrew vigorously opposing both. He has been on the ground for several days and has wielded all his power and well known skill, particularly in favor of silver, but before the convention met and before he could get the convention met and forced to accept the result without a protest. The opposition formally threatened, in case he attempted to resist either McKinley or "sound money" on the floor of the convention, to prevent his going to St. Louis. He made a vigorous fight in the platform committee, but was beaten unanimously. He agreed to accept any instructions that might be passed, but the convention compelled him before his election to rise in the hall and pledge himself not only to vote, but to work for "sound money" at St.
Louis. The other seven delegates, who
nor to go upon the platform or credentials committee, or to have a voice in choosing the national committee.
St. Louis convention are: L. B. French
of Yankton, D. A. Mizner of Mitchell, W. E. Smead of Lead, W. V. Lucas of
Hot Springs, H. G. Meacham of Gettys-
burg, Dave Williams of Webster, C. G.
Sherwood of Clark and R. F. Pettigrew
of Sioux Falls.

Committee Report.
AUSTIN, Tex., March 26.—The Re-
publican state convention has been called to order for two days, but has as
port. The panning has been going steadily on in the convention, however,
men continue to keep a bold front and
Allison.

The theater hat has become a subject of legislation in Ohio. A member of the legislature who had become weary of paying for admission to theatrical performances and witnessing nothing but military displays, has introduced a bill placing women who wear hats in any place where they are not to be seen. If his legislation goes, it will mean that the cap, has demonstrated her fitness for matrimony. There was a promptness of decision, a firmness of purpose and an intelligent tolerance expressed in her attitude on that crucial question.
